Y Political Parties To Debate Issues

by Judy Geissler
Student Government Editor

The de Jong Concert Hall will convert into a verbal battleground Wednesday at 7 p.m.

At that time, teams representing Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace will clash in a debate co-sponsored by the ASBYU Academics office and the DAILY UNIVERSE.

The debate will open with four-minute introductory statements by each of the teams. Next will come discussions of three pre-chosen issues: Vietnam, law and order (which includes civil rights) and party differences. Each team will make a three-minute policy statement and will conclude with a two-minute rebuttal.

The debate will close with a summary by each of the three contending groups.

CALL ISSUED

The debate results from a challenge by members of the BYU Forensic Association to debate the proposition, "Resolved: That George Wallace should be the next President of the United States."

The challenge ended with the proposition, "Nondes to say, we welcome the opportunity to speak for the negatives."

Joel F. Hansen, president of the campus Y.A.I.P., declined the challenge, explaining, "Inasmuch as George Wallace is not opposed by the BYU Forensic Team, the president would be opposing Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon, we will not debate the forensics squad."

Hansen went on to point out the Y.A.I.P. did not, by declining the challenge, deprive the team of an opportunity to debate for its candidate.

"We do hereby issue a formal challenge to the Young Republicans and Young Democrats of BYU to a three-way debate among the three campus parties to be held Saturday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. in the de Jong Concert Hall."

GOALS ACCEPTED

Immediately, David H. Warren,

president of the BYU College Young

Democrats, accepted the challenge. "We wish to indicate our willingness to wish to attend this meeting and to further believe in the two-party system," he said. "We see it as an opportunity to expose George Wallace for what he really is," the Illinois senior promised.

The team members representing Richard Nixon are Dale Lambert, a junior in political science from Claremont, Calif., and Gary Hunter, a Salt Lake City junior.

"The members of our team are articulate, well-informed and responsible," Warren commented. "We feel pleased they have chosen to represent us, and we are confident they will do a job possible."

The Young Democratic response was worded by Dee Halverson, second vice chairman of the BYU organization.

"We will participate as long as the ground rules are adhered to," Halverson said. "Our candidate, Vice President Humphrey, will be represented by myself and my colleague, Leslie Brown, who is currently the State Young Democrat organization president."

Wallace's proponents will be Hansen and H. Verlan Anderson, Jr.

THANKS!

RYU coed Shuron Jones sports a badge thanking Ray and Nellie Reeves for the large land grant given to BYU recently. The Reeves will be honored in today's Devotional assembly.

DR. AND MRS. RAY R. REEVES

Las Vegas couple will be honored at Devotional assembly today for donating their San Clemente, Calif., ranch to BYU.

Dr. & Mrs. Reeves Receive Spotlight

Today's Devotional assembly pays tribute to a couple who have spent their lives serving others.

Dr. Ray Reeves has been a successful chiropodist in Los Angeles, and developed the "air wedge" which revolutionized shoe manufacturing. He founded the Reeves Rubber Co. and in the early 1940's purchased a ranch near the rubber plant in San Clemente—which lies mid-way between Los Angeles and San Diego.

This parcel of land, known as the Reeves Ranch, covers 1,044 acres of rolling hills, and has come into the hands of BYU by a generous donation from Dr. Ray and Nellie Reeves.

Just how the Reeves, who are not members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, came to give BYU this valuable piece of land is a story which needs to be told. Dr. Reeves tells it thus:

"Some time ago my wife Nellie and I read a syndicated newspaper article by Dr. Max Rafferty of Calif. describing Brigham Young University as a place where youngsters still had ideals, still tried their hair, still believed in God. We had to see it, so we drove to Provo, Utah.

"The young people at BYU were all clean-cut, good looking. We didn't see any drifters. There was no beatnik atmosphere. Those students had their feet on the ground. Instead of finding faults, they were accepting leadership. In short, we liked the way the university was being run.

"Our association with the people at BYU has been marvelous. To show our support, we've given the university our ranch."

Other signs of generosity from the Reeves are the donating of several acres of their San Clemente land for construction of a Methodist church, and donating an organ to a church in Hawaii in memory of Mrs. Reeves' mother.

Thanks, Ray and Nellie, for showing your faith in BYU. It wasn't just a freak accident that there were no mini-skirts on campus; that the students were clean-cut and showed faith in God. The things you saw are what makes BYU unique—and the students are proud of what they, and the university, stand for.

Nixon Calls For Evaluation

By Frank Cormier
Associated Press Writer

KEN BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, describing the Democratic administration as unwilling and unable to give Latin America effective aid, called Monday for a "sweeping re-evaluation" of the Alliance for Progress.

As he prepared to resume active campaigning Tuesday with public rallies in three states, Nixon said a statement outlining his ideas for revitalizing the seven-year-old alliance, which he said is faltering.

One proposal put forward by the Republican presidential candidate: completion within five years of the Pan-American Highway through the center of South America in order to open up the heartland of the continent.

Nixon said "the present administration has chosen to ignore our unwillingness and inability to give our neighbors the prosperity and effective aid which they deserve." He argued that "money and energy has been dissipated without a realistic assessment of the most efficient methods for achieving established goals."

GOFA, as the alliance is called, has cooperated to develop Latin America, saying responsibilities and functions currently are fragmented.

"Our emphasis should be upon trade instead of aid," he said. "Proposals deserve full consideration instead of new inter-American funds to assist in the stabilization of prices of Latin American commodities; special financial assistance to those countries burdened with interest losses on their debts; and a system of tariff preferences for Latin American products."

He said priority should be given at this point to agricultural development because "food production falls hazardously behind population growth."

Nixon said he also would emphasize education programs.

He said that Castro-type communism constitutes a threat south of the border

"not because it is strong but because it is weak." To meet the threat, he said, "what Latin America really needs is fewer marching feet and more economic strength."

Nixon, up early this morning for a swim, continued a strategy talk with relaxation and strategy talk with a causeway.

The Nixon camp is expected to release Tuesday a blueprint for the campaign, and Nixon says will feature a "surprise blitz" aimed at giving him maximum momentum on election day. Candidate plans will be down to the last minute on vote-seeking efforts in the seven populous states.

He also is concerned about strength as registered in publications for third party candidate George Wallace. He said Sunday he believes Wallace would be claiming only 1.7 per cent of the vote at this point, but the 20 per cent indicated

WHOLE STORY

Editor:

I read the article on the Wallace speech in the Tabernacle. Now I'm going to tell the whole story. I was there, too.

Many people were there for the sole purpose of listening to Wallace's speech. They stood and waited for hours from the very first. One man stood up and began to yell during Wallace's speech. An officer asked him several times to sit down or leave. The officer was ignored and the man kept on shouting.

It wasn't until he had pushed another man down that he was carried out. He was ASKED to leave quietly, but he wouldn't. He wanted to cause just as much trouble as possible. Why didn't you put that in your article?

Why didn't you say that there was these three Apostles of God, the Tabernacle Choir, and many city officials there. Only the heads had not enough room, the middle and the adults. They had to act like children.

Why didn't you tell about the numerous standing ovations and cheers Mr. Wallace got? Why didn't you tell of the anti-Wallace demonstrators that had to be removed from the street by police with tear gas?

Why did we have to put up with that? Wallace supporters didn't disrupt the Nixon rally in Salt Lake. We had respect for his rights as a speaker. Why not print the whole story next time.

FORGIVEN

Editor:

Will the individual who stole my humanities textbook from the baggage rack in the Y center cafeteria please return it? I am a simple fool to believe that I love him for his shift and resourcelness. Will he please feel welcome to my car also, or my wardrobe, my records, or my skis. However, if it is not too great an expense, I would like to share my text with him for the remainder of the semester. After that, of course the book will be his own, but may I suggest that he sell it and buy scriptures.

Meanwhile, I still trust everyone and shall continue to leave my books hanging.

CULTURAL IGNORANCE

EDITOR:

Monday evening (Oct. 7) the "T" from New York performed at the Long Concert Hall. As did Susan Tanner, Music Critic for DAILY UNIVERSE, the concert superb. What she failed to mention about the concert (and I quote) "nothing could be more sublime than the atmosphere of the various movements of the various works would have been better to not at all than to applaud as stated, applaud is, and was an amateur performing artist."

She failed to see that any student attending the church which he is unfamiliar would be courteous to acquaint himself with customs used there or would that at the meeting that he knows familiar with the prevailing customs.

The author would like to offend those present. We ask of much any BYU student attend a cultural event.

PROMOTE HECKLERS

Editor:

Yesterday morning on the front of the DAILY UNIVERSE appeared Judy Griswold's article regarding Governor George W. Romney's visit to Salt Lake. I must take exception to Griswold's article. It is obviously not a reporter's preoccupation.

All of the available space has been dedicated to what the heckler said and what the heckler did. I feel that the area of Gov. Wallace's visit to promote hecklers, as well as the people of Utah, including the people of this University, an opportunity least hear the man's side of capability.

Irregardless of my personal feelings about Gov. Wallace, I feel that a injustice has been brought against students of this University. I would like to encourage the supporters of Wallace on campus to request an of similar space to be written by a reporter who is at least capable of keeping his biases to himself.

I would further advocate that Griswold withdraw herself and propaganda from the only 100% Church supported newspaper. I'm paying my money for that, as you.

AMS Plans Better Representation

eration Representation" has been a phase of the program designed by the Man Students under the leadership of AMS President Richard L. Casper. It is organized to provide more between AMS and the students' mental plane, according to Casper, it's getting more students actively involved in the various facets of the AMS organization. To further this end, a display has been set up in the Reception Area of the Wilkinson Center. The display will run all week.

BOOK SALE

"We want the exhibit to acquaint students with the purpose and function of the AMS organization," Casper explained. "We want more students to know of the integral part AMS has played in student government. In recent years, AMS has sponsored such programs as Man's Week, the annual book sale, the Christmas Drive and so forth."

Casper also pointed out several student services provided by AMS Board and other AMS Council members.

The second phase of "Operation Representation" will be the assignment of individual AMS Council members to areas of both on- and off-campus housing.

SOUNDING BOARD

"Through the individual contact we will establish with the students, we hope to establish clear lines of communication and make the AMS Council a 'sounding board' for student ideas and suggestions," Casper commented.

The third phase of the program includes a school-wide survey. The survey is designed to offer students an opportunity to "speak up and be heard," according to Casper.

"We need student cooperation and participation to make 'Operation Representation' a success. Right now we need freshmen and upperclassmen to fill out the AMS Council, and we need girls for the secretarial staff. Once we get the manpower we need, we can start the rest of the program," Casper said.

Sounds Of Freedom To Present Concert

A popular BYU performing group, the Sounds of Freedom, will present its first full show on campus Thursday at 8 p.m. at the De Jong Concert Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

The group, sponsored by the BYU Culture Office, will be celebrating the start of its third year.

Students being organized to present a formal assembly two years ago, the Sounds of Freedom cast then compiled a long list of engagements, including an April, 1967, appearance on the Ed Sullivan TV show.

That same week the 45 students toured the Pacific Northwest area to complete a coast-to-coast trip.

While in Los Angeles the Sounds of Freedom performed at Disneyland, where the group was lauded by the Disney park entertainment director as "one of the two best acts we've ever had."

Highlights of the cast's second year included an appearance on a regionally-telecast March of Dimes show with the King Sisters, a special performance for Gov. Ronald Reagan during a Northern California trip and a series of shows at HemisFair '68 in San Antonio, Tex.

The group has also been featured at Valentine's Rock Hall in Salt Lake City and recorded an album for MGM Records.

Though the Sounds of Freedom have sung many times on campus, the cast has never had the opportunity to present its entire show.

"We're really looking forward to the chance to finally put on our complete show," commented Jerry McDonald, the group's manager.

The Thursday show is being sponsored by AM's.

Board Gives Block Ticket Direction

Campus organizations which want to sit together at the Homecoming football game Oct. 26 must act immediately, according to the student ticket board.

A representative from each group desiring block seating for the BYU-Texas El Paso contest must let the board know the approximate number of tickets needed, said Denny Fullmore, board chairman.

Because of the expected large turnout for the game, each organization requesting block seating must submit a self-addressed stamped envelope to the ticket board's box on the fourth floor Wilkinson Center by Thursday at 3 p.m., explained Fullmore.

Attached to each envelope must be the name of the group and the requested number of tickets.

"We may not be able to grant each group its full request, due to the number of block seating tickets Fullmore. "We want to let organizations know by this time how many they'll be allowed to

Engineering and Science at IBM

"The interdisciplinary environment keeps you technologically hot."

"Working in data processing today pretty much means you work in a broad spectrum of technologies," says Nick Donofrio.

An Associate Engineer at IBM, Nick is a 1967 graduate in Electrical Engineering. He's using his technical background to design circuits for computer memory systems.

"Circuit design used to be a narrow job," he says. "Today it can take you into the front yard of half a dozen different fields. In my job, for example, I work with systems design engineers, chemists, physicists, metallurgists, and programmers."

Nick describes a hypothetical case history: "A memory systems man comes to me with memory circuit requirements. Before I can start designing the circuit, I go to see a physicist. He helps me select an appropriate technology for the monolithic circuit."

"As the design develops, I work with a test group and also check back with the systems and semiconductor people to make sure I'm on the right track."

Keeping up

The interdisciplinary environment at IBM helps you keep up to date technologically. As Nick puts it, "You're constantly exposed to what's happening in other fields."

IBM needs technical graduates to work in research, design and development, manufacturing, product test, field engineering, and space and defense projects. We also need technical people in programming and marketing.

Check with your placement office

If you're interested in engineering and science at IBM, ask your placement office for more information.

Or send a resume or letter to Harley Thronson, IBM Corp., Dept. C, 3424 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90005. We'd like to hear from you even if you're headed for graduate school or military service.

At Summer Olympics...

Marv 'Sharpens His Tongue'

BYU may just have a very big representation in the Olympic Games that opened last weekend in Mexico City, but the school will be represented by one of the really big men on the Cougar campus.

That person is Marv Robertson, a former track and the Cougar's coach for most of his college days. Marv hasn't put the shot in years, but he has managed to keep that bountiful build that is a trademark among weight men. Robertson's assignment will be to help the U.S. team in the 400-meter relay and Finland's team of entries. During the Olympics he will serve as trainer for the Finnish athletes.

Coincidentally, the BYU track will be working with the other members of the Cougar track squad who will be representing their homeland. The three are Jaakko Tuominen, 440-meter hurdles; Pertti Pousa, triple jump; and Altti Alenius, pole vault.

Three other BYU athletes will also be participating in the Games. Two of the three, John Ahstrom and Jon Stanley, are former basketball players who will be competing with the U.S. volleyball team.

A third BYU graduate, Paul Beacham ('57), is listed in the canoeing competition.

Native Utahans listed on the U.S. team roster are Wade Bell, Ogden native and former track and field star at Oregon, who will run the 800-meter; Lee Sather, former Utah State discus thrower who set a new world record at that event; and Curt Canimar, former Salt Lake who captained the Harvard rowing team.

Of the three track and field men from BYU, Pousa appears to have the best

Y Rugby SquadNabs Aspen Wins

BYU's rugby squad put together a well-rounded attack Saturday as it brought home two victories over Denver and Kansas City. The Y was eliminated from competing in the championship round because it was played on Sunday.

The victories were achieved in the annual Aspen Ski-Country Rugby tournament.

BYU's back speed proved to be the margin of victory for the Y in its first game against Denver. BYU was on the score board first for the first time in a try by Bill Nesbit and a successful conversion attempt by Dale Johnson.

The remainder of the game was downhill with scores by Larry Hardin, on a short punt, and the right side of the score board and Wally Josephs. The two tries were also converted by Johnson to give BYU a 15-0 win.

The second game against top-seeded Kansas City proved to be the most exciting with the Y pulling out a 14-3 victory.

chance of winning a medal. Pertti, who will be a humor when he returns to campus following the games, is one of the world's foremost triple-jumpers.

What Robertson won't be competing in the shot, he may have to hurdle a few language barriers. His knowledge of French isn't great, but Marv has learned a few phrases that should get him over the hump.

"I do pretty well with phrases like, 'Where does it hurt?' and 'Here's two aspirins,'" Robertson admits.

But it's Spanish that may give him trouble.

Y Booters Smash USU

The powerful BYU "A" soccer team has lopped it to Utah State "B" by a lopsided 8-0 score Saturday in Logan.

Steve Camargo, who played only three quarters, led BYU by scoring a club record five goals in Y soccer history only Bill Forrest and Hamid Sadiq have come close to Camargo's total. Each has tallied four goals in one game.

Nico Berni tallied two points against Utah State "B," and Dan Madson added the final score.

Eric Cave, Ed Wolforts and Brad Miller entrenched themselves near midfield and completely thwarted the USU "B" offense.

Foster Friends Serve Patients

by Gerry Avant University Feature Writer

day morning started out just as any day for Pat and Idell.

But friends Dave and Ann soon came to the rescue and day turned into a very special day.

Their arrival sent a flurry of rent throughout the home as Pat dashed down the long hall to the living roomed to herself. "I never knew when he is coming. I had up in cuffs the last time he was here. But Dave really didn't mind the rushed up to Ann and then he found his waist as she hurried her face against his chest. Tears were but none came. She was very and Idell are two of the 35 at Rest Haven in London, a home for mentally retarded and elderly. Ann Slapski and Dave are members of the Circle K Club at BYU. They are "Foster kids."

According to Mrs. Lucinda Gammel of Utah County Welfare ment, the "Foster friend" project is sponsored by Mrs. Mary Hutchings, a worker for Rest Haven.
Sister Hutchings put the ball otion for a foster friend project families to those of projects
American Fork Training School, Utah, and patients at Rest Haven more than just food, clothing, etc. They needed friends.
One-to-one ratio is what the patients most and this meant that many of them—would be

PROVED to be a beacon light in a dark world of loneliness. The Inter-Organizational Council president informed clubs and service groups on campus of the proposed project and the idea was snapped up by the Circle K and Dileas Chaleas service groups.

The groups are rapidly making progress and are being engrossed out, as was exemplified by the Circle K last year at their district convention where they claimed a trophy for the best project.

Last August at the International Circle K convention, the Circle K group was awarded two trophies; one was for first place in the single service category. About 850 colleges and universities were represented.

The "foster friend" project as a simple one with students making visits with their "friends" as often as possible.
Nothing fancy is expected or needed.
Story books and musicals, either performed or group singing, are big hit with the patients.

On the occasion several students decided to grieve up their visit with gymnastic performances. But a smile, an embrace and a "How are you today?"
are the biggest hits of all.

The Circle K and Dileas Chaleas and other service groups engaged in the "Foster friend" project last year reached about 48 patients from Rest Haven and Hidden Hollow, a similar rest home for men in Spanish Fork.

RECORDER FLUTE COURSE

The recorder has been widely used by composers and performers of both church and secular music for centuries. It resembles the familiar "Tonette" or "Flutophone." The comparative ease of technique makes this inexpensive instrument ideal for amateur individuals and families as well as the student of any of the music professions.

Caution To Coeds

The black, velvet V-necked

Laurie Cole, editor, reminds coeds to wear a blouse or
